

WALT – understand the consequences of our actions

Dear Humans,

I'm here to inform you about the wrong you are doing and to try and help you realise how to become eco-friendly. Oh ... by the way, I'm a , a tall humongous slate-grey mountain that gazes over you and the underneath world. In the winter, I will have colossal patches of snow thrown on my peak, but in summer I will glisten in the beaming light of the sun.

First of all, littering! I'm sure you have done it once before. But it shouldn't be like that. This is why you need to realise that dropping a tin can or piece of plastic on the ground can affect the whole world. By recycling, we won't waste any material as we can reproduce it. If you carry on, then you won't have a bottle of water or a can of coke.

I hope you have listened carefully because if there is a sudden increase in littering then I guess this letter is useless. Thank you to all those who read this letter and try to be more eco-friendly.

Written by

Sienna